Promise Program

The Promise Program, established under the auspices of the Utah County Division of Substance Abuse, is a substance abuse treatment program for women and children. The Promise Program utilizes a variety of educational and therapeutic methods to help individuals embark on a path of recovery from substance abuse. The program's comprehensive approach with both mother and child ensures the greatest opportunity for long term sobriety, health living, and increased self-confidence. Proceeds from the Utah County Commissioners' Cup will be used to continue and to expand this successful and important program to allow more women with children to have the opportunity to participate in the Promise Program.
